Decline to Marry a Run-away Couple.

LITTLE TROUBLE AT CAPITAL

Romance of Bryn Mawr Maiden and Columbian Student Ends in Happy Marriage.

After walking from one end of Wilmington, Del., to the other all day Tuesday, looking for a minister to make them man and wife, Miss Jean Baker Martin, a Bryn Mawr College girl, who gave her age as twenty-one years, and Victor Carleton Olmsted, twenty-one years old, a student at the Columbian University, came to this city and were married by the Rev. Gerhart A. Wilson, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, yesterday.

Only two of the groom's most intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, and in order to maintain secrecy, he remained in Washington while his newly-made bride returned to her home, 2234 Christian Street, Philadelphia, to tell her parents of the wedding.

Bride a Blond.

Miss Martin is in her junior year at Bryn Mawr College, and during the summer months she has been taking an extra course at the University of Pennsylvania. She is a tall, sweet-faced blond, with big blue eyes and flaxen hair. At Bryn Mawr she was popular with all of its members. She is also a member of Kappa Sigma, a woman's society, into which she was initiated while in Ithaca, N. Y., three years ago. Her father is Thomas Martin, superintendent of the Philadelphia postoffice, and was opposed to the union because he desired her to finish her college course before marriage. He will be acquainted with the fact that she will not finish the course when his daughter returns home this evening.

The groom is tall and athletic, who has played on the football and baseball teams of the Mercersburg College, as well as those of the Columbian University and Tanglewood Athletic Club. He moves in an exclusive circle in Washington, and has many friends, who doubtless will learn with great surprise of his elopement.

Love at First Sight.

The first met in July, 1903, while Miss Martin was visiting the groom's sister in a summer resort in New York. It was a case of love at first sight, and when she returned to college and he came to the home of his father, Victor H. Olmsted, a correspondence which often called for two or three letters a day, was started. Olmsted made frequent trips to Philadelphia, usually on business, but invariably took a train and went out to Bryn Mawr to see Miss Martin.

The companionship resulted in Olmsted proposing to Miss Martin while they were attending the army and navy football game on Franklin Field last Thanksgiving Day.

Last Tuesday Olmsted went to Philadelphia and was joined by his bride-elect. The two boarded a train and went to Wilmington, where they intended getting married. They walked from the office of one magistrate and notary public to another in the hope of finding some one who would perform the ceremony, but they were disappointed. They were alone and wanted to be that way, because they did not wish anyone to know what they intended doing.

To Marry in Washington.

Footnote and weary they left Wilmington and on the train they planned to be married in Washington. Accordingly Miss Martin boarded a train in Philadelphia last evening and came to Washington, where she joined her lover. After obtaining the marriage license with the utmost secrecy, Olmsted started out to find a minister to perform the ceremony. That he had not desired to be out of the city, but he finally found two of his friends who went with him to the home of the Rev. Mr. Wilson, 2101 F Street northwest, who agreed to unite them. The young lady was then escorted to the house.

The little party was ushered into the small parlor and were soon united in marriage. After the ceremony was performed the bride party of four went to the Pennsylvania station, where the bride and groom were to take the train to Philadelphia. The bride had but forty minutes in which to partake of a wedding feast in the station restaurant. They hurriedly served and a round trip ticket to Philadelphia was purchased. With tears the bride boarded the train at 2 o'clock and had her husband good-bye, promising to return after "father has learned of this."

MANIA FOR GETTING RICH.

The mania for getting rich—the mad, feverish desire to become wealthy—has played worse havoc among ambitious people than war or pestilence. A member of the Chicago board of trade says that the men and women of this country contribute $100,000,000 a year to the sharpeners who promise to make them rich quick. They work the same old scheme of a confidential letter and shrewd baiting, until the victim parts with his money. Thousands are plodding along in poverty and deprivation, chagrined and humiliated because they have not been able to get up in the world or to realize their ambitions. For the reason that they succumbed to the scheme of some smooth promoter, who hypnotized them into the belief that they could make a great deal very quickly out of a very little.

The great fever of trying to make $1 earn $5 is growing more and more contagious. We see even women seeking going into brokers' offices and "bucket shops," investing everything they have in all sorts of schemes, drawing their deposits out of the banks, sometimes pawning their jewelry—even their engagement rings—and borrowing, hoping to make a lot of money before their husbands or families find it out, and then to surprise them with the results; but, in most cases, what they invest is hopelessly lost.—Orison Swift Mardin in Success.

TESTING SHIP DEVICES.
Sir William White proposes to British naval architects an experimental tank for testing the forms of ships and the resistance they occasion in passing through water. The late William Proude experimenting in this manner at Torquay arrived at conclusions that probably no amount of theoretical reasoning and calculation could have reached.

The use of the advanced age of ninety-six of Dr. Otis Avery, for seventy years a practicing dentist, will attract more than ordinary notice because his career spanned the history of the development of dentistry in America. Dr. Avery is believed to have received the first certificate of proficiency ever given a dentist in this country. That was in 1823, six years before the institution of the Baltimore Dental College, the first in the world.

Gold fillings have been found in the teeth of Egyptian mummies and false teeth in the tombs of ancient Egyptians. Perhaps the Pharaohs knew the feeling of the forces. But it was in this country that dental work was first advanced to a science. Its most improved instruments are of American invention. The use of anesthetics is an American discovery. Bridgework is an American idea, and the artificial tooth indistinguishable from the natural is the result of American skill.—New York World.

LAUGHS AT THE "13."
There is one policeman in this city who laughs at the superstition—moss-covered, but still well-dreaded by many—the number 13. This is Special Officer Harrington, of the Third District. In fact, he believes that instead of 13 being sure to bring bad luck it insures the possessor good luck.

This is why he takes great pleasure in carrying badge No. 33, and nothing gives him greater delight than to display it to show how foolish he believes the ancient superstition. So much does he believe that in 13 there is nothing but good luck that he applied for badge 33, which is the forty-ninth in the district containing the commonly dreaded 13.

And even more than this: To further show his contempt for 13 he would be glad to accept an invitation to dinner of 13 plates. His only condition is that he be allowed to be the thirteenth man.—Philadelphia Telegraph.
